Bio

Representing Businesses and Individuals in Matters of Acquisition, Succession, and Transition

Charles (Chas) B. Jones' practice focuses on representing businesses, individuals, and families in the coordination and implementation of their long-term family and wealth transfer goals and objectives. His client base is from within and outside of Maryland and he has collaborated planning efforts with lawyers from many other states including Washington, California, Idaho, Montana, Florida, Virginia, Delaware, and Connecticut.

Chas' practice runs the full gamut of federal estate and gift tax and the state law implications thereof. He provides advice to clients with respect to discrete transactions and complex estate and business planning and speaks regularly on those subjects. He has been a consultant to nationally recognized law firms regarding creative charitable gift planning and has been counsel to several charities. In addition, Chas has handled many planning and estate settlements both inside and outside Maryland.

He resides in Baltimore with his wife Gail; they have four adult children. Chas is an elder at Hunt Valley Presbyterian Church.
